President's Message

Cindi Brooks, CSI, CDT

Hello all:

The New Year has started out frigid but our first chapter meeting on January 18th warmed things up with our special "bunny" guest at the Chattanooga Zoo. Our thanks to Darde Long, Liz Crowe and Amy Kinworthy for offering their event space and putting on an informative presentation on the Chattanooga Zoo African Expansion project. Their enthusiasm about the new exhibits, adding giraffe and lion exhibits to their animal kingdom, was contagious. For more information about the services the zoo offers and for giving opportunities visit www.chattzoo.org.

Our 4th Annual Chili Cook-Off is on February 10, 2018 at JDH Company. We cannot thank JDH Co. and Procoat enough for their continued support and sponsorship for the Chili Cook-Off. This event is open to everyone, friends, family and colleagues. Competing is fun along with judging. If you have a special chili, cornbread or dessert recipe contact Beth Eubanks to enter the competition. Most importantly the proceeds for the cook-off go to the Marshall Hildebrand scholarship and we are excited to be awarding the 2018 Marshall Hildebrand scholarship to the successful applicant at the chili cook-off on February 10th.

Thanks to our program's chair, William Sundquist, our meetings for the rest of the fiscal year are set. The February Chapter meeting is on February 22, 2018 at the Chattanooga Public Library. Join us to hear Bill Wilkerson discuss the history of the library along with recent energy efficient changes. In March we are having a Joint Meeting with greenspaces. Suite Plants will be presenting "Advanced Living Walls With Case Studies". Both meetings have CEU's available. See inside this issue of Chatta Data for more details on the upcoming meetings.

Mark Your Calendars, the CSI Chattanooga Chapter is proud to announce our 31st Product Show will be held on April 17, 2018 at Stratton Hall. For exhibiting opportunities and additional information contact Jeff Tippens at jtippens@mii.com or Amy Fleming at afleming@triad-elec.com.

We hope to see you all at our upcoming events!

Best Regards,

CSI's Annual Election

Candidate for Office of: Institute Director – Gulf States Region

William Sundquist, CSI

Candidate Statement

My campaign theme is, "This is our time." This is our time because just like our founding in 1948 the industry still must communicate. It is important for the Institute Board to continue to build on our strong foundation. During my professional career I have worked in national, region and local positions. As it relates to CSI, I have served as a chapter and region president in addition to various roles in both. For work I travel various regions of the country so during my campaign I have visited chapters in the Gulf States, South-Central and Southwest Regions listening to the members. I believe this is fully preparing me to serve CSI.

What leadership skills do you possess that you could apply as a member of CSI's Board?

Throughout my career I have always committed myself to listening. To me this is a critical leadership skill that used effectively can benefit any organization. I also believe that when you serve in leadership roles one must be a visionary. The world of today does not just happens. It takes a collection of knowledge, planning and implantation of a vision. I also have a great believe in placing people in positions to be successful. Without the proper people in place no vision will come together. Managing the human resources of any organization is critical and crucial to its success. My education provided me skills in marketing, which I have been able to use in my career. Additionally, these skills have allowed me to successfully market ideas within volunteer organizations, and to market the volunteer organization to others in the design and construction industry.

What skills and experience make you uniquely qualified for the position for which you are a candidate?

Starting with my first job at age 14, I have continued to develop my skills as a special projects manager. Throughout my corporate career I have always taken on roles of reversing negative markets or developing non existing markets into profit centers. It takes a unique skillset to be able to perform in an environment as such and I have proven over and over that I am capable of the challenge. CSI is at an emerging cross road today. With our new governance directive there will no doubt be change; and let me be the first to tell you that change is hard. The Institute Board should be comprised of members who understand CSI, understand how to work in a changing culture and be able to effectively assist the director when needed. I also served at an executive level with a 501c3 that supports libraries, so I am aware of the fiduciary responsibilities. I am able to bring an additional perspective of membership organizations from multiple disciplines. CSI is not in this alone and I believe it is important to understand the challenges that lay before our organization.

What do you think should be changed about CSI or what changes would you make? What shouldn't change about CSI?

Broadly speaking, John F. Kennedy once stated that, we must celebrate the past to awaken the future. That said I am a member of CSI because I believe in our product; I would not "change" CSI. As I said in my candidate statement, this is our time to capture new members and expand our commanding role in the construction industry. Technology has advanced since 1948, but the need for the industry to communicate has stayed constant. CSI's model is rooted in communications which is a necessity for any successful organization.

What do you see as critical to CSI's future success?

The commercial construction industry no doubt has a natural ebb and flow with respects to investment dollars. That said, when the architectural performance and other commercial industry indexes are trending upward so should our organization. Just like our founding, we must continue to tap into the core values that advance our industry and be a resource for industry advancement and excellence.

Tips for Successful Air and Vapor Barrier Installations

VapAir Seal™ Air and Vapor Barrier

When installing Carlisle's Air and Vapor Barrier (AVB) products – VapAir Seal™ 725TR, a self-adhering air and vapor barrier that can also be used as a temporary roof and VapAir Seal MD, a self-adhering air and vapor barrier that can be applied directly to metal decks – it is important to avoid the following errors:

AVB membrane must be kept at proper temperatures before installation. It is critical to keep the temperature of the AVB membrane above 60°F, as low temperatures can negatively affect adhesion. If the membrane's temperature is below 40°F during installation, adhesion will be significantly diminished.

Primer must be kept at proper temperature before installation. Primer must be kept above 60°F prior to installation. CAV-GRIP™ Low-VOC Adhesive/Primer is particularly susceptible to cold; if the cylinder drops below 45°F, the gas propellant will change to a liquid and the cylinder will stop spraying. If this should occur, warm the cylinder above 60°F and the propellant will return to a gas.

AVB membrane must be properly rolled in. SBS asphalt adhesive is pressure-sensitive. To ensure proper contact, AVB field sheets must be rolled with a 100- to 150-pound roller, and vertical surfaces must be rolled with a hand roller. When installing VapAir Seal MD directly over metal decks, brooming the sheet is acceptable.

Primer is typically required on parapets and non-metal surfaces. When installing VapAir Seal MD on vertical and non-metal surfaces, priming is typically required. When installing VapAir Seal MD directly over metal decks, priming is not required.

Technical article submitted by: Beth Eubanks, CSI

Seams must be rolled in properly. To ensure proper adhesion, it is critical that seams are rolled in with a seam roller. Using a 150-pound roller on seams is not sufficient.

Use the proper Carlisle-approved details. It is not uncommon to see non-traditional details used on AVB installations. It is critical that AVBs are properly sealed per Carlisle specifications and details.

Use the proper AVB membrane for project. Many variables (deck type, weather, job conditions, etc.) determine which type of AVB to use on a project. Consult Carlisle for more information.

Don't install AVB over wet concrete. Because adhesion can be compromised when AVBs are installed over wet concrete, the concrete must be allowed to dry before installation. The concrete must be allowed to dry naturally; "torch drying" or "force drying" are not acceptable, as these methods push moisture back into the concrete. Additionally, if rain falls on a dry concrete deck, it must be allowed to dry naturally prior to installing AVB.
